Aprašymas

Reliable VGA extension:1:1 interconnected cable with HD15 plug to HD15 socket for clear signal transmission.
High-quality signal quality: Three coaxial cables (RGB) and seven data cores ensure stable image transmission.
Effective protection against interference: Overall and individual shielding and ferrite core reduce electromagnetic interference.
Easy installation: Color-coded die-cast connectors in accordance with the PC99 standard support error-free cabling.
Rugged workmanship: The robust connector design and precise pin assignment enable long-lasting use.

The InLine® S-VGA extension with HD15 plug to HD15 socket is a professional solution for extending analog image signals between monitors, projectors and computers. It provides a reliable connection for devices with a VGA connection, especially in presentation environments, educational institutions and office installations.
The cable has three single-shielded coaxial lines for RGB signal transmission and seven additional data lines. Thanks to the double shielding - consisting of overall and individual shielding - and the integrated ferrite core, the signal is effectively protected against electromagnetic interference.
The 1:1 pin assignment without PIN 9 ensures standard-compliant and stable transmission. The blue coloring of the die-cast connectors complies with the PC99 standard and makes it easier to correctly identify the connection ports. The robust design ensures high mechanical resilience even
