Freewell case for Iphone 16 Pro Max with 17mm mount

Freewell turns your smartphone into an advanced filmmaking tool, giving creatives full control over every shot. The case features a magnetic filter holder and a threaded slot for 17mm lenses, so you can expand your camera's capabilities with additional visual effects in seconds. It's an ideal choice for those who want to achieve quality similar to professional equipment work without carrying heavy kit.

Strong and ultralight Kevlar

The model is made of Kevlar - a material up to five times stronger than steel, yet extremely lightweight. The case increases the level of protection for your device without adding weight, so your iPhone remains handy and comfortable for everyday use. You gain premium resilience without compromise.

Quick filter installation

The integrated magnetic mount allows you to install Freewell Sherpa filters - including VND, CPL and Mist - in no time. It only takes a second to change the filter and adjust the nature of your footage to match the lighting conditions. You can seamlessly transition between shots without stopping your work and without the need for additional mounts.

Support for 17mm lenses

The Freewell case works with all 17mm lenses - from wide-angle to macro to telephoto and anamorphic. This gives you the ability to create shots that were previously reserved for large cameras: striking proportions, close-ups, wide perspective or cinematic image compression become available in one lightweight accessory.

Ergonomics for the creator on the move

With a combination of lightweight construction, rugged material and precision-cut components, the Freewell iPhone 16 Pro Max Filmmaker Case provides a secure grip, comfortable handling and stability in any situation. The case is designed with the mobile filmmaker in mind - you record, shoot and edit accessories without interference, wherever you are. The case also supports MagSafe technology, which means seamless connection to chargers and accessories of this type.
