Operating at a base clock speed of 2.50 GHz (with significantly higher boost frequencies), the Intel Core i5-12400F utilizes the IPC improvements of the Alder Lake design, resulting in superior single-core and multi-core performance compared to previous generations. The 'F' suffix indicates that this CPU requires a dedicated graphics card (GPU), allowing you to maximize your budget allocation towards a top-tier visual experience.

Key Features for PC Builders:

- 12th Generation Power: Built on the cutting-edge Alder Lake architecture for significant efficiency gains.
- 6 Cores / 12 Threads: Ideal configuration for fluid gameplay, streaming, and content creation.
- LGA 1700 Socket Compatibility: Ready for the latest generation of motherboards, supporting technologies like PCIe 5.0 and DDR5 memory (motherboard dependent).
- High Base Clock: Starting at 2.50 GHz, offering responsive speed under heavy load.
- Boxed Edition: Includes the required cooling solution, making it easy to install and start using right away.

Whether you are upgrading an existing system or building a brand new rig, the Intel Core i5-12400F provides the reliable foundation necessary for serious productivity and gaming.

INTEL is a globally recognized leader in semiconductor technology, constantly driving innovation in computing power, microprocessors, and chipsets used worldwide in everything from servers to personal computers.
