The Carlinkit CP2A PRO operates on a plug-and-play system, so setup takes only a moment and requires no additional software installation. After the initial pairing, the device automatically connects to your phone when you start the car, allowing you to begin driving and using multimedia faster. Wireless communication eliminates the need to constantly connect your phone with a cable, keeping the car's interior tidier. The stable connection also ensures that maps, music, and calls work smoothly even during longer trips.

Preserving the functions of the factory system

The adapter is designed to work with the car's original system and maintain control of the steering wheel buttons, knobs, and multimedia controls. This ensures that using wireless CarPlay or Android Auto remains intuitive and does not require changing your driving habits. The device also maintains the original resolution of the car's system, ensuring a comfortable and clear user experience with apps. An additional advantage is the ability to simultaneously use wireless CarPlay or Android Auto and connect to an external Wi-Fi hotspot.

Modern components and compact design

The Carlinkit CP2A PRO is equipped with a quad-core Cortex-A53 processor and runs Android 12.0, ensuring stable performance during daily use. The compact housing, made of ABS and PC materials, blends well with the car's interior and doesn't take up much space once connected. The adapter features a USB-A and USB-C port, allowing it to easily adapt to various in-car setups. Its low power consumption lets you use the device without overloading the car's electrical system.

OTA Updates and Convenient Use

The device supports OTA updates—wireless software updates that help improve the adapter's compatibility and stability. This is a practical solution for those who want to use the device for an extended period without needing to replace the hardware. The set includes two cables—USB-A to USB-C and USB-C to USB-C—so the adapter is ready to use right out of the box.
