GODOX UB-165S Parabolic Umbrella

The GODOX UB-165S Parabolic Umbrella is a light modifier with a parabolic design and a silver interior that allows you to achieve vivid, high-contrast lighting and highlight even the finest details of your subject. The special reflective surface ensures a long light reach, creating a distinctive, directional effect with clear highlights and high sharpness. It's an excellent choice for photographers who want to achieve a professional, dynamic look in their photos and have full control over the character of the lighting.

Ideal for portrait photography

Thanks to its silver interior, the umbrella generates more contrast-rich light than models with a white reflective surface, allowing for more pronounced highlights and shadows and greater image depth. This lighting characteristic works especially well in portrait photography, where the definition of facial features and dramatic light shaping are key. If you need a softer effect, you can use the Godox
