Darkflash C285MP computer case (white)

The Darkflash C285MP case is distinguished by its double-sided 0.7 mm thick tempered glass panels, which provide a full view of the installed components while ensuring the durability of the design. It is compatible with mATX and ITX motherboards and allows for the installation of up to 9 120mm fans or a combination with 140mm fans, providing ample cooling performance. It also supports water cooling up to 360 mm and offers space for a graphics card up to 410 mm in length and CPU cooling with a maximum height of 160 mm, making it suitable for demanding gaming and professional configurations.

The Darkflash C285MP features 0.7mm thick tempered glass panels on both sides for component protection and aesthetic appeal. The transparent sides allow a full view of the interior and expose components - you can, for example, mount fans with RGB backlighting. Note: the chassis itself does not have pre-installed backlighting.

Advanced cooling options

The Darkflash C285MP supports the installation of up to 9 120mm fans or a combination with 140mm fans, allowing you to effectively dissipate the heat generated by your components. Coolers of up to 360 mm can be mounted on the top and bottom walls, increasing water cooling options. The case is compatible with a variety of heatsink configurations, so you can personalize your cooling system.

Thoughtful internal design

Space for graphics cards up to 410 mm in length and CPU cooling with a maximum height of 160 mm allows you to install advanced components. The case is designed for convenient access to all components, and numerous mounting points make cable management easy. This allows you to keep its interior tidy, which translates into better air circulation and cooling efficiency.

Support for various drive configurations

There will be hard drive and SSD slots at your disposal, allowing you the flexibility to customize your storage. Up to two 3.5" HDDs and three 2.5" SSDs can be mounted at a maximum. - Such a layout is optimal for both gamers and those working with large amounts of data.

Convenience of use

The top panel of the chassis features two USB 2.0 ports and one USB 3.0 port, providing quick and convenient access to peripherals such as portable drives and controllers. The I/O panel also includes HD audio ports, as well as power, reset and LED backlight control buttons for convenient system control without having to open the case.
